

Alumni Profile

Leah Marshall

BA '11 Sociology and Thanatology, BSW '14, MSW '15

Current Career

Organization: Fanshawe College

Title: Sexual Violence Prevention Advisor

Organization: St. Joseph's Hospital

Title: Social Worker

“ The connections you make at King's are not just while you're a student. ”

---

Career Overview

I work as a Sexual Violence Prevention Advisor.

How did King's help you get where you are today?

King's is such a small tight-knit community and a lot of my professors were well connected to the community. When I was a student at King's they helped me make community connections which actually helped me to get a job right away when I finished school. Even in the past two years since graduation, I've had professors reach out to me with different opportunities. The connections you make at King's are not just while you're a student. If you decide to stay in the London community your professors are very well connected. Social Work is a small community, so those relationships are really important.

How did King's help you make a difference?

My MSW prepared me to enter the field feeling prepared and ready to take on the tasks in my new position. King's prepared me with the essential skills that I would need when entering the field.