Course description: This course applies a world historical lens to the First World War, examining the causes, course of events, and global ramifications of the conflict. Students will be asked to consider a variety of historiographical schools of thought concerning the war.

Course learning outcomes: By the end of History 2151A, students will be able to:

- Identify the causes, events, concepts, trends, immediate consequences, and history of the First World War
- Understand how the First World War impacted domestic affairs in the belligerent nations
- Become comfortable with assessing and grappling with differing interpretations regarding the history of the First World War
- Explain and assess how the war was global in nature
- Reconsider their own preconceived ideas about the First World War through forum discussion and book reflections
- Have information about the World War to annoy friends when watching Hollywood movies on the topic
- Consider the ramifications and consequences of actions during and after First World War on world affairs
- Develop thoughtful evaluations on course content
- Understand how commemoration can affect current-day general understandings of these events

Mode of Instruction: Online Asynchronous

Course textbooks/materials:

- Lawrence Sondhaus, World War One: The Global Revolution (2nd Edition) ($56.05 or ebook $39.00)
- Henri Barbusse, Under Fire ($21.99)

Both books are available for purchase at the Bookstore at Western (Found at this link:

<https://bookstore.uwo.ca/textbook->

search?campus=KC&term=W2025A&courses%5B0%5D=670 KC/HIS2151A). Other editions for both books are acceptable for this course. Other readings will be made available via OWL Brightspace.

Students will be expected to have access to a computer and stable internet in order to complete this course.

Method of evaluation:

- 20% Lecture Quizzes – four of five; each worth 5% (Modules 3, 5, 7, 9, 12)
- 20% Book Reflection (due November 14)
- 20% Online Participation
- 40% Final Exam

Online Quizzes: There will be five Online Quizzes in this course; students are responsible for completing four of them. If a student completes all five, the top four marks will be counted for the final grade. They will be due at the end of Modules 3, 5, 7, 9 and 12. They are there to ensure students are keeping up with class content, while also helping ensure students are comprehending it. These quizzes will be a mix of 15 true/false and multiple choice questions based on lecture material and the assigned reading. These quizzes will take place on OWL Brightspace and be open book. The quizzes will go live at the start of the module and are available until the deadline at 11:59 p.m. ET the day the module ends. No late submissions will be accepted.

Please note that because the submission deadline for this assessment already includes flexibility in the form of choice – students only have to complete FOUR of the FIVE quizzes and can choose whichever four they wish to complete – the instructor reserves the right to deny academic consideration for quizzes which are submitted following each quizzes' deadline.

Online Participation: Some modules will encourage students to respond to course content or assigned readings through online forum discussion on OWL Brightspace. This may entail responding to a question based on the lectures or readings, to think about some of the various arguments made in historical research on these subjects or to analyze a primary or secondary source. Students are expected to both post their initial thoughts, while responding to other students during the module the forum discussion prompts are assigned; late posts may still be marked, but will not be able to receive full credit. Students are expected to interact with other students and the professor respectfully. Any inappropriate content will not be tolerated and will lead to students forfeiting their credit for the given module. This mark will consider a student's contributions over the duration of the course.

Book Reflection: Students will be expected to read Henri Barbusse's Under Fire and reflect upon its contents in a 750-1000 word short essay. The reflection should be in full sentences and have citations to specific points in the reading, or, if relevant, the course textbook or other course readings. Students will also have a specific question or questions that they will need to respond to in their reflection. Further instructions will be provided on OWL Brightspace. This assignment is due Friday, November 14, 2025 at 11:59 p.m. ET

Final Exam: There will be a final exam taking place during the December exam period as scheduled by the registrar's office. The exam will be fully online, available through Brightspace. Students are expected to make themselves available to complete the exam at the scheduled time. More information on format will be provided earlier in the term.

Information for all assignments: Every assignment will be submitted electronically via OWL Brightspace.

Students are expected to include citations for every written assignment. Citations should match a recognized citation format (Chicago, APA, MLA, etc.) and include at least the author, title, and page number.

Late Policy: As per the King's University College Department of History guidelines – a penalty of five marks will be assessed for essays submitted the first day after deadline, followed by a penalty of one mark per day including weekends.

Email Policy: Students are welcome to speak to the professor during office hours or by appointment, either in person or via Zoom. The professor will also do his best to be available to answer any questions regarding the course or its content. Regarding email, he will aim to respond within 24 hours. One exception to this rule will be weekends where he will aim to respond within 48 hours.

Academic Integrity / Remote Proctoring:

Western Scholastic Discipline policy:

https://uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/scholastic_discipline_undergrad.pdf

AI Policy: King's is committed to fostering a culture of professionalism, honesty, and academic integrity, and all members of our community—faculty, staff, and students—have a role to play in promoting an ethical learning environment. Furthermore, through the work they submit for academic evaluation, students develop important habits of critical thinking, independent inquiry, and creativity. Thus, it is expected that students will submit work that is truly their own, completed without external assistance (human or artificial) except as explicitly permitted by the course instructor.

Turnitin: This class will use Turnitin on all submitted written assignments to check for plagiarism.

KING'S UNIVERSITY COLLEGE

GENERAL COURSE POLICIES

2025-2026

1. Academic Accommodations, Consideration for Absences

Academic Accommodation (Accessibility)

Accessibility Services works to ensure that academic programs are accessible to all students, and supports students who may have a condition related to, but not limited to, vision, hearing, mobility, different ways of learning, mental health, chronic illnesses, chronic pain, autism spectrum disorder, ADD/ADHD, and temporary conditions (beyond short-term academic consideration). Accessibility Services provides recommendations for accommodation based on medical documentation or psychological and cognitive assessment. The accommodation policy can be found here Academic Accommodation for Students with Disabilities. Information on Accessibility Services at King's can be found here.

Academic Consideration for Student Absence

If a student is unable to meet a course requirement due to substantial but temporary extenuating circumstances (medical or compassionate), they should follow the procedures below.

In some cases, where instructors have built flexibility into their assessments, this flexibility will already address consideration needs.

Requests for academic consideration should be directed to the Academic Advising Office of your faculty/college of registration. Requests must be made as soon as possible and no later than 48 hours after the missed assessment.

As a rule, documentation is required for academic consideration. For academic consideration requests on medical grounds, the Student Medical Certificate is available at https://www.kings.uwo.ca/kings/assets/File/currentStudents/courses_enrollment/exams_and_tests/S_MC-Feb-2025.pdf.

Students are permitted one academic consideration request without supporting documentation per term per course.

Instructors may designate one assessment per half-course weight as requiring formal supporting documentation. Please refer to the course outline for each course.

For further information, please see:

https://uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/academic_consideration_Sep24.pdf

Absences from Final Examinations

If you miss the Final Exam, contact the Academic Advising Office of your faculty/college of registration as soon as you are able to do so. They will assess your eligibility to write the Special Examination (the name given by the University to a makeup Final Exam).

You may also be eligible to write the Special Exam if you are in a “Multiple Exam Situation” (e.g., more than 2 exams in 23-hour period, or more than 3 exams in a 47-hour period).

If a student fails to write a scheduled Special Examination, the date of the next Special Examination (if granted) normally will be the scheduled date for the final exam the next time this course is offered. The maximum course load for that term will be reduced by the credit of the course(s) for which the final examination has been deferred. See the Academic Calendar for details (under Special Examinations).

Religious Accommodation

Students should consult the University's list of recognized religious holidays, and should give notice in writing to the instructor and Academic Advising Office if a course requirement will be affected by a religious holiday/observance. Notice must be given as early as possible, and no later than two weeks prior to an examination, and one week prior to a midterm test date. It is the responsibility of such students to inform themselves concerning the work done in classes from which they are absent and to take appropriate action.

3. Statement on Use of Electronic Devices

Use of Electronic Devices: Unless explicitly stated otherwise, you are not allowed to have a cell phone, or any other electronic device, with you during tests or examinations. Unauthorized possession of such a device during a test or examination constitutes an academic offence.

Use of Laptops, Tablets, and Smartphones in the Classroom: King's University College at Western University acknowledges the integration of new technologies and learning methods into the curriculum. The use of electronic devices such as laptop computers, tablets, or smartphones can contribute to student engagement and effective learning. At the same time, King's recognizes that instructors and students share jointly the responsibility to establish and maintain a respectful classroom environment conducive to learning.

The use of electronic devices by students during lectures, seminars, labs, etc., shall be for matters related to the course at hand only. Students found to be using electronic devices for purposes not directly related to the class may be subject to sanctions under the Student Code of Conduct; see <https://www.kings.uwo.ca/current-students/student-affairs/code-of-student-conduct1/>

Inappropriate use of electronics (e.g., laptops, tablets, smartphones) during lectures, seminars, labs, etc., creates a significant disruption. As a consequence, instructors may choose to limit the use of electronic devices in these settings. In addition, in order to provide a safe classroom environment, students attending in-person class sessions are strongly advised to operate laptops with batteries rather than power cords.

4. Statement on Academic Offences

King's is committed to academic integrity. Scholastic offences are taken seriously and students are directed to read the appropriate policy, specifically, the definition of what constitutes a Scholastic Offence, is posted at http://www.uwo.ca/univsec/pdf/academic_policies/appeals/scholastic_discipline_undergrad.pdf

It is expected that students will submit work that is truly their own, completed without external assistance (human or artificial) except as explicitly permitted by the course instructor. Check with you instructor on what tools, including generative AI (ChatGPT, translation tools, grammar-checking tools) are permitted in the course. Because a tool is permitted in one course, that does not mean it is permitted in other courses.

All required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to the commercial plagiarism detection software under license to the University for the detection of plagiarism. All papers submitted for such checking will be included as source documents in the reference database for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of papers subsequently submitted to the system; see <https://elearningtoolkit.uwo.ca/tools/Originality Reports - TurnItIn.html>.

Computer-marked multiple-choice tests and/or exams may be subject to submission for similarity review by software that will check for unusual coincidences in answer patterns that may indicate cheating.

5. Copyright of Course Material

Lectures and course materials, including PowerPoint presentations, tests, outlines, and similar materials are protected by copyright. Faculty members are the exclusive owner of copyright in those materials they create. Students may take notes and make copies for their own use. Students may not allow others to reproduce or distribute lecture notes and course materials publicly (whether or not a fee is charged) without the express written consent of a faculty member. Unauthorized sharing of class content is subject to academic discipline.

Similarly, students own copyright in their own original papers and exam essays. If a faculty member wishes to post a student's answers or papers on the course website, they should ask for the student's written permission.

6. Use of Recordings

Participants in this course are not permitted to record the sessions, except where recording is an approved accommodation and/or the participant has the prior written permission of the instructor. Unauthorized recording and/or sharing of class content is subject to academic discipline.

7. Policy on Attendance

Any student who, in the opinion of the instructor, is absent too frequently from class or laboratory periods in any course, will be reported to the Dean of the Faculty offering the course, after due warning has been given. On the recommendation of the department concerned, and with the permission of the Dean of that Faculty, the student will be debarred from taking the regular examination in the course.
